

Wisdom of San Pasa

San Pasa is the full-time Patron Saint of Systems and the part-time patron saint of people who don't have a patron saint and don't want one (which helps to explain his doleful expression). Here are his Ten Commandments of Simplicity:

- I. Just do it.
- II. Give up grasping—let yourself have the Universe and Eternity.
- III. Love the one your with (that is, love yourself).
- IV. Get plenty of rest and drink lots of liquids.
- V. Eschew elephant dung (that is, quit intellectualizing).
- VI. Know thyself (but by gentle about it).
- VII. “To thine own self be true.”
- VIII. Comparisons are odious—*so don't make 'em.
- IX. Love may “believe all things”* but beware computer specialists saying, “No problem, no problem.”
- X. Be still and know (God, Truth, the Tao, You-Are-It, etc.) but don't get too serious about it.
